

Robert Johnson

My wife, Rebecca, and I operate RJ Game Farm at Fairlight, in the south east corner of Saskatchewan. We have 4 young children and enjoy raising them, like we were both raised, in a farm setting caring for animals and being active.

We have been bison producers for 11 years. We've transitioned ownership of the farm, which was started in 1974, from her parents, Ryan and Roberta Clark. It was originally an elk farm and post BSE they saw an opportunity and a lot of potential in the bison industry.

We have a herd of 450 cows and finish all our calves, plus buy animals from other producers. We take great pride in our family's hard work. We are grateful for all the relationships that we've built with other producers, and people in the business across North America. I really enjoy being part of and being informed of all aspects of bison production, especially animal health, and believe in advocating for good agricultural practices

I am very much aligned with the objectives and focus of the CBA and MBA. I would like to use my skills and the knowledge gained in my experience as a bison producer to help these groups, and my fellow producers reach their goals.

I'm very appreciative for the opportunity to serve this organization.
