

Steven and Michelle Lundy live and work on their family farm with their two little girls, just outside of Bentley, Alberta. They have been working with Michelle's parents in both the farming and the marketing of bison over the past few years. They love the farming lifestyle and think there is no better place to raise a family. Steven also works with Canadian Rangeland Bison and Elk in addition to working on the family farm. Steven is very passionate and excited to not only grow their herd, but also be part of creating a strong, stable, and sustainable market around the world for bison.
